

Post-Doctoral Research Position Available

Post-doctoral research position available immediately for project concerning optimization of human mesenchymal stem cell differentiation. Preferred experience in primary cell culture and expertise in RT-PCR, Western immunoblotting, and immunohistochemistry. Demonstrated track record of publishing, excellent communication and statistical skills, and commitment to an academic career are required.

The Orthopedic Surgery Research laboratories are located in the recently completed Building for Transformative Medicine on the BWH main campus.

The anticipated start date for this position is April 2017. Interested candidates should email a brief cover letter indicating their research interests, skills, and career goals, CV, and contact information for 3 references to:

Julie Glowacki, Ph.D.
Brigham and Women's Hospital
Department of Orthopedic Surgery
60 Fenwood Road, BTM 5016-E
Boston, MA 02115
jglowacki@partners.org

Qualifications

Candidate should be skilled in cell culture, gene expression analysis, biochemistry, cytology, histology, statistics, and scientific wiring.

PhD or MD is required.